

Web Site Design for High Tech

This web site design combines a scientific look and feel with new Arryx brand design in an organized format for promoting an ultra high-end microscope system and software. We repurposed all collateral photography and created custom navigational graphics that further amplifies the look and feel of the new Arryx brand.

